Re:

The first 5 weeks have flown by! The kids are definitely in the swing of things and behaviors have been at a minimum. The 5-week Progress Report cards will be coming out this coming Friday and I am hearing that we are having quite a few kids who do now want to complete assigned work. It is something we are working on correcting but the current grades are lower than normal in some classes as a result.

The cell phone policy has been surprisingly really good! There have been a few issues which we have addressed but no major battles with kids.

Our NYS 3-8 results have finally shown up. I have attached a copy of our results for everyone to view. I colored coded them to be able to track class progress over time.

In athletics, soccer is in full swing. The boys' varsity team is currently 1-9-1 and the girls' varsity team is 4-4-3. Both has lost some tough games and show signs of improving each week. There is potential still for both teams to possibly host a playoff game once sectionals start. The modified girls and boys teams have been improving all season and each team has seen their share of early success.

The grades 4-6 basketball season has just started as well. No issues to report at this time.

In CSE, we have taken care of the transfer intake meetings for our new students with IEPs and we are starting to make arrangements for our upcoming re-evaluations and a few annual reviews.
